
Fixed-input controls change only the fitted lens. The dashed stability criterion was specified before inference.